EARLY CAR IS WANTED

FAIRMOUNT HEIGHTS APPEALS FOR BETTER SERVICE.

The Fairmount Heights Citizens' Association Friday evening at the residence of James F. Armstrong discussed the subject of street car facilities.

A communication will be addressed to Gen. Harries of the Columbia electric line requesting him to use his good offices in securing for the patrons of the road living in Fairmount Heights a ten-minute schedule throughout the day, and if possible a through service to 15th street and New York avenue northwest.

It will be pointed out to Gen. Harries that the first car in the morning now leaves the District line at 5:40 o'clock, while if the same car was scheduled to leave at 5:20 o'clock it would give persons who report for duty in the city ample time to be at their places of employment at 6 o'clock and make only a difference of twenty minutes in the start of the first car.

The appeal is to be made directly to Gen. Harries instead of the electric railway commission, as he has heretofore shown this subdivision a disposition to make concessions in railway facilities.

An urgent request will be made to the District Commissioners for the erection of a light at the 38th street station of the Columbia railway.

Whereabouts of River Men.

Capt. C. W. Ridley, manager of the Mount Vernon and Marshall Hall Steamboat Company, who has been ill at his home in this city for the past two weeks, is reported somewhat better, and it is thought he will be able to leave his bed in a short time.

Edward and Arthur Reeves of Alexandria are about the shop in a Chicksen creek on a fishing trip. They will return home this week.

Capt. John Underwood, gatekeeper at the Washington terminal of the Alexandria ferry, has been transferred to the Alexandria terminal as night watchman. Gatekeeper Brainerd of Alexandria has been assigned to duty on the ferry steamer Lackawanna as wagon ticket taker.

How to Women Readers

MAUVE AND HELIOTROPE WORN BY ELDERLY WOMEN

Pink and Purple Tints of These Shades Show to Great Advantage With Gray Hair.

That mauve and heliotrope shades are popular this summer is shown by the frequency with which they are seen on bathing beaches, at afternoon functions and formal evening wear.

Of these colors there are so many shades that all the different types who wish to adopt them. If a tone of either is chosen wisely it will be pretty for summer wear. As an evening color it is a failure, as a rule, for very few tones of mauve show to advantage in artificial light.

A heliotrope shade worn with prematurely gray hair, accompanied by a pink and white complexion, will find more becoming than any other color, whether the eyes are blue or brown.

Pink, mauve, if not too bright, and a warm gray in a semi-transparent fabric lined with shell pink will give just about the right tone.

Mauve With Hydrangea Blue Tint. There is the mauve that is dashed with hydrangea blue, extremely pretty and alluring, but women past their first youth will find this shade rather cold looking.

A very youthful yellow-haired blond may wear this tint and will be a beauty, even though she may be without an atom of color in cheeks. Her sunny hair and red lips provide the warmth necessary to make the toilet a success.

There is a dull shade of mauve bordering on the columbine that is wonderfully becoming to middle-aged women who are rather colorless of complexion but whose hair is gray, the gray toning from iron to pure white, and whether on the brunette or the blond.

Recently this shade was seen in a toilet worn by a slender woman of medium height who might have been sixty years old. Her hair was just the ordinary shade of gray, arranged in a smart, up-to-date style.

VACATION COMFORTS FOR CAREFUL WOMEN

A girl who works hard all the year and has only two weeks' vacation should get much comfort, rest and a good time from the holiday. The former will be greatly added to if she takes some of the accessories with which the average boarding place is not furnished, for as a rule there are rarely any but the bare necessities at such houses.

Among these inexpensive conveniences are hammocks, and they cost so little and may be used so much that it always seems a pity when a girl goes to the country for a fortnight without one. Even though the house may supply a couple, there is always one in each, and if a girl has the luck to get one for a time she may not monopolize it without being selfish. Therefore let her take her own and be the envy of the other girls. A hammock may be purchased for $1.00. After vacation time is over she may bring it home and swing it in her own room for further hours of comfort. To hang a hammock, screw strong hooks into the casing of windows or doors. To take it down is no trouble, and such a hammock is easily stowed away.

Take Mosquito Netting.

A woman whose only time in the country for years has been her fortnight's vacation always arms herself with mosquito netting. Four widths are stitched together, and this will completely cover the bed when the pest is in evidence. A tack put into each corner of the head and footboards, or string around the knobs, if the bedstead is of iron, will support this protector sufficiently, and will obviate the necessity of any framework. The arrangement assures many hours of sleep, that otherwise might be disturbed by the buzzing of insects.

Alcohol lamps cost little nowadays, unless one goes in for an elaborate variety, and they are of great use in the country. A lamp of iron, with a glass chimney, and a small lamp, a girl who does not wish a hearty breakfast may be independent of the dining room and enjoy the luxury of a late breakfast in her own room.

Tea is even easier to make, for with a style, fluffed a little around the face. Her eyes were dark and her skin was sallow, so much so, in fact, that it seemed rather daring for her to choose such a shade.

This costume was of linen, made up with a smoothly fitting skirt trimmed with a deep fold about the bottom, and the coat, semi-fitting, was about half length, the fronts cut away, and the closing was with one button.

The coat was finished with a collar in a duller, darker shade of the columbine mauve, and the sleeve, coat shape and three-quarter length, ended in cuffs to match those of the chosen color.

Added collar and cuffs were of ocher-tinted embroidered batiste, only a tone or two lighter than the skin, and the gloves were of natural chambray.

The hat she wore was a fairly large sailor shape trimmed with ribbons and wings—quite a fully trimmed hat—in a variety of shades of the chosen color.

A Costume of Harmony. Not a jarring note in the whole color scheme. A touch of white would have been fatal to hair or skin. As it was, the hair appeared to be whiter than it really was, consequently more striking, while the skin suffered far less by contrast with cream than would have been the result had white been chosen.

Any woman of the purely blond type may wear the mauve shades with success. She, however, who possesses a good deal of color will do well to select only the faded or pastel shades.

The colorless blond will select the pinky mauves and silver lavenders if she would look her best.

The red-haired blond may wear pale or dark mauve, purple or grayish mauve, an excellent choice, or either rolled makes an excellent out of door pillow. There are many times when it is needed for extra bed covering, and either the rug or shawl may be used as a wrap. No vacation outfit is complete without one of these.

All these accessories, even the hammock, may be packed with the clothes, so the cost of luggage is not increased, and when a girl can afford to tuck a few goodies away in the corner of her trunk, having small slins of food, bottled meats or sweets, she can have many an impromptu picnic.

tea ball, which may be bought for from 50 cents up, two or three cups may be brewed without using a pot. Almost any boarding house is willing to lend its cups and saucers for an hour, if a girl will return them to the dining room, and by this kindness on a wet day she may have a nice little party.

Take Steamer Rug or Shawl to Country.

An old shawl or steamer rug is another great comfort in the country, for either serves many different purposes. The rug or shawl may be spread on the ground and will thus prevent dampness from reaching the body, or either rolled makes an excellent out of door pillow. There are many times when it is needed for extra bed covering, and either the rug or shawl may be used as a wrap. No vacation outfit is complete without one of these.

All these accessories, even the hammock, may be packed with the clothes, so the cost of luggage is not increased, and when a girl can afford to tuck a few goodies away in the corner of her trunk, having small slins of food, bottled meats or sweets, she can have many an impromptu picnic.

SUMMER HOSE.

A novelty in summer hose shows a white cotton background, very fine and soft, barred in squares with a black hair-line, over which are scattered tiny sprays of flowers in natural colorings. These dainty little bunches of forget-me-nots, single rosebuds, pimpernel English daisies, etc., are all represented.

These stockings would be charming worn with a white toilet, the color of the flower matching the accessories worn.

THE SEPARATE WAIST.

An exceptional model for a separate waist suitable for an elderly woman in mourning is of black Brussels net. Before cutting on the material is striped with heavy black corded ribbon about an inch wide, set on a little less than three inches apart. The waist fits smoothly on the shoulders and is taken into the belt with a little fullness. The sleeves are elbow length, taken into deep cuffs of the net laid in fine tucks. The collar matches.

The best effects are obtained by mounting over good white lawn, cutting out the material in the neck. The sleeves should be fully lined.

Street Costume of White and Black Stripe.

A smart coat and skirt costume of striped flannel is here shown, the model being especially worthy of notice in the way the striped material was cut. The collar and buttons were of black moire silk and the coat was worn with a folded vest of white flannel, with a little oriental embroidery.

Madam, do You Want a Germless Milk?

Here are the facts about raw milk, and the facts about Van Camp's. It will take but ten minutes to read them—then you can well decide. Please know the truth, then do as your judgment tells you.

The fact is this:
Not a housewife in this city will use raw milk after she knows Van Camp's.
You will never cook with half milk when you once know the flavor that Van Camp's gives to milk dishes.
You will never drink germ-laden milk when you know that Van Camp's is pure.

Is it not worth ten minutes to know the truth about something as vital as milk?

Milk Breeds Germs.

Milk is an ideal breeding place for germs. That is why it carries infections.

A single germ, left in milk a few hours, will breed millions of others like it.

Some cows are tubercular, and the milk from such cows carries the germs of consumption.

Some milk cans are washed in water which carries the germs of typhoid. Some milkmen are diseased, some dairies are uncleanly. Some milk is subjected to foul air and to dust.

You know nothing about this when you buy raw milk. You have no way of guarding yourself.

But when you use Van Camp's Milk you are absolutely protected. There is not a germ of any kind in it.

Nothing but Milk.

Don't think of Van Camp's as condensed milk, for condensed milk is half sugar. Van Camp's is nothing but milk.

We simply take the richest of Holstein milk, and evaporate two-thirds of the water.

Nothing whatever is added—no sugar, no starch, no preservative. Nothing is subtracted save water.

We milk, in five states, 20,000 Holstein cows. Every cow is regularly inspected. So is every man who milks them.

Every dairy is sanitary. Every factory, where the milk is evaporated, is built without wood. We carry cleanliness to such an extreme that there is never a chance of infection.

Then the milk is sterilized after the cans are sealed. The milk keeps for years as fresh as the day we milked it.

Van Camp's is Delicious

For Cooking.

Every woman knows this who has used Van Camp's. But she may not know the reason, which is this:

Milk that stands awhile separates. The butter fat rises and the solids fall.

Then you get one sort of milk from the top of the can, and another sort farther down. You never get the whole milk from the milkman's can.

And, perhaps, you skim what you do get before it goes into cooking.

In Van Camp's alone you get the whole, rich milk. You get 30% of solids—8% butter fat.

That's why all milk dishes made with Van Camp's are so delicious. The richest of raw milk cannot compare with it. Once cook with Van Camp's and you never will use any other.

We publish a book of recipes prepared by an expert on milk dishes. You can have it free if you'll write us.

WILD MAN SHEDS WIG AND FAT LADY BECOMES STYLISH.

Show Raided at Atlantic City and Bearded Woman Dons His Trousers for the Occasion.

ATLANTIC CITY, August 3.—The leopard changed his spots and the Ethiopian his skin here yesterday. In the cells of the central police station the "Wild Man from Uganda," who bites steel bars in half with the ease of a child chewing candy, tamed down and took off his hot wig and his heavy iron anklets. "The half human-half beast," whose remarkable formation has puzzled all the scientists of Europe, removed the legs shaped and colored like those of a mule and put on the cork extremities he wears in private life.

"How do the snake eater," who lives on the reptiles and grasses that infest his native jungles, asked for a ham and a "tub of suet." "Beautiful Helene, the mountain of adipose tissue," shrank to a molehill after modestly removing several pillows in the matron's room. With a wet sponge the indelible figures of birds and beasts placed upon her with terrible tortures while she was yet a babe.

And the bearded lady, who has brought to this country, escaped as it was being transferred from a box to a pit at Hillside Park Saturday night and created consternation among a large crowd. The reptile, which measured more than thirty-six feet from tip of tail to nose and weighs about 400 pounds, did not enjoy its liberty long, however, as a squad of attendants, policemen and volunteers captured it before it had got far from the pit.

The snake was not taken without a struggle, however, and it is believed that the man who was bitten by the snake, J. C. La Breque, an animal trainer, and Frank Gleason, formerly of the Bronx Zoo, who threw a bag over the reptile's head. While they held it down by the head, Policemen Gorham, Gilman, Hannan and Gleason grabbed the body and carried the writhing monster back to the pit.

During the battle with the snake women and children ran screaming about the park. The sight of the monster tossing men around sent several of them into hysterics. When Gleason first approached the snake after its escape it struck at him with its head, and, missing him, hit the canvas at the side of the pit and tore a large hole in it.

GIBBONS VISITS SATOLLI.

Cardinals Discuss American Affairs. Farley Congratulated.

ROME, August 3.—Cardinal Gibbons yesterday visited several of the high church dignitaries, including Cardinal Satolli, prefect of the Congregation of Studies, and Cardinal Martini, conversing with them at length concerning American affairs, and especially with the former regarding the university at Washington.

Cardinal Gibbons, Bishop Foley of Detroit and Bishop O'Connell of Washington will go to Castel Gandolfo to visit the villa of the American college there.

Mgr. Farley, archbishop of New York, considered here to have been the most imposing Catholic manifestation that has ever occurred in the United States.

R. B. Duke's Auto Smashed.

GREENWICH, Conn., August 3.—After smashing up the big Fiat car belonging to R. B. Duke, vice president of the American Tobacco Company, in a collision yesterday with another automobile at the point where Mrs. Frank Jay Gould's auto was wrecked three weeks ago, the chauffeur for Mr. Duke, whose name is said to be Rudolph Wehr, disappeared without sending word to his employer, who is stopping at the Edgewood Inn.

Connecticut Republican Convention.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., August 3.—The call for the republican state convention to meet in this city, September 8 and 9 to nominate state officers, a representative at large and seven presidential electors, was issued today.

INTEREST IN GIANT WARSHIP

BRITISH NAVAL EXPERTS WATCHING INDOMITABLE.

London Kept Posted by Wireless of Big Ship's Performances Since Leaving Quebec.

LONDON, August 3.—British naval officers are watching with interest the reports regarding the performance of the warship Indomitable, on which the Prince of Wales is returning to England from Quebec, where he attended the tricentennial celebration.

This battleship cruiser—for she combines the speed of a cruiser with the armament of most battleships—left Quebec on the morning of July 29, and although it would have escaped the notice of the British, it is a hurricane about the Straits of Belle Isle, wireless telegraph reports received at the admiralty today contained the welcome news that the big vessel had maintained the high average speed of twenty-six knots and that she expected to drop anchor off Cowes at 6 o'clock this evening.

Taking into consideration the delay caused the Indomitable by the hurricane, this voyage is looked upon by naval officers as a triumph. When the vessel left Quebec her captain promised to be at Cowes by 3 o'clock, but she did not arrive until 6 o'clock, and when it was learned that she had run into a storm the admiralty gave out the time of her expected arrival as 9 o'clock to night. The Indomitable must therefore have done some very fast steaming to make up the lost time.

Hereafter the Indomitable did twenty-seven knots, and her captain was instructed to push her to the highest capacity on her present run. From the moment the vessel left Quebec the officers of the Indomitable were in wireless communication with the admiralty until Saturday morning, through the stations on the Canadian coast, and since then through the Bally Islands.

BUSINESS REVIVAL IN SOUTH.

Lumber Prices Advance, Under Big Demand.

WILMINGTON, N. C., August 3.—Reviewing the revival of activity in lumber circles and other industrial lines, the Southern Lumber Journal says: "From tabulated reports to the Southern Lumber Journal, covering the states of Virginia, North and South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama and Mississippi, it is shown that a general awakening has taken place and a revival of trade in the long and short leaf pine districts of the south during the past thirty and sixty days, carrying an advance in prices anywhere from $1 to $3 per thousand feet. This is in part accounted for by the general revival in business along all industrial and commercial lines, rekindling fires in factories, mills, iron and steel plants, as well as operating generally throughout the great mining regions of the country. Railroads and car builders are placing orders for southern pine car sill decking, flume and other materials of this character.

"Crop prospects in every part of the United States, north and south, east and west, were never before so full of promise, and it is now patent to all that the railroad and transportation companies are going to be taxed to the utmost to move these crops. Confidence is being rapidly restored in all parts of the country, banks show an abundance of money on hand, and everything points to a rapid resumption of business in all commercial, industrial and manufacturing lines such as should produce in the very near future a normal state of business conditions."

DECKHAND SAVES WOMAN.

Jumps From St. Lawrence Steamer to Make Rescue.

THOUSAND ISLAND PARK, N. Y., August 3.—Jumping from the upper deck of the steamer St. Lawrence, Frank Shaw, a deck hand, saved the life of Mrs. Clara Crosby of Adams, N. Y., opposite this resort yesterday. The rescue was witnessed by many. Summer tourists, who have started a subscription, will apply for a Carnegie medal for Shaw.

Mrs. Crosby started out in a motor boat for a neighboring island. She did not see the St. Lawrence as it bore down upon her. A moment before the crash she looked up, saw her danger and screamed. In the collision the motor boat was overturned and the woman was swept under the steamer's sides. From the upper deck Shaw beheld the accident and jumped. He reached the woman quickly and held her head above water until aid reached him.

Bay Schooner Sold.

The two-masted bay schooner William Donnelly, a well known trader to this port, was recently sold by her owner, Capt. J. C. Rignin of Bethel, Del., to C. C. Paul & Co. of Baltimore.

The Donnelly has been a successful trader to bay ports, and after she is overhauled and put in good order she will be continued in the bay service. The Donnelly is one of the oldest vessels in service on the bay, having been built at Hamburg, Pa., in 1899.

She is a vessel of 68 tons register and is 67.8 feet long, 17.6 feet beam and 7.1 feet deep. Her present calling port is Seaford, Del., but this will be changed to Baltimore.
